

Vasileios-Athanasios
Anagnostopoulos
Winterthurerstrasse 316
Zürich 8057
☎ (0041) 76 730 6939
✉ anagnwstopoulos@hotmail.com

April 2, 2017

Dear Sir or Madam,

My name is Vasileios-Athanasios Anagnostopoulos and I graduated from the School of Rural and Surveying Engineering at the National Technical University of Athens (NTUA). I was born and raised in Greece in a family that highly values education. From the beginning of my Surveying Engineering studies I was strongly attracted by what I would generally identify at the time as Computer Science and especially Computer Programming. For that reason, after finishing my studies at NTUA, I joined the MSc program in Informatics at the University of Piraeus in an effort to further focus on CS and acquire the knowledge and skills that would make me equivalent to a CS graduate. For my performance in the MSc I was awarded a scholarship.

For the last one and half year, I have been working at ETH on a research project called "Location-Aware Mobile Eye Tracking for Tourist Assistance" (LAMETTA). LAMETTA is a research project on gaze-based interaction techniques in outdoor environments and during my stay at ETH, I developed a platform with C++ and OpenCV, that uses feature extraction and matching techniques from computer vision literature to transfer the position of the gaze from the Field-of-View image of a mobile eye tracker to a reference image.

Having reached this far, now I am looking for new challenges in the field of geo-information engineering, a field that combines the knowledge acquired in my first degree with Information Systems. Fascinated with my new life in Switzerland, with Swiss people, lifestyle and culture, I have also started to learn German. My current level is A2 (in the common European Framework of Reference for Languages), but I would like to improve my language skills.

I see myself as a passionate, motivated and open minded person, who does not hesitate to confront any challenge that comes up and is ready to make an impact in his field. I am a dynamic, cooperative and creative person who easily makes new contacts and works hard. I also consider my-self a well-organized and trustworthy person, who is motivated to pick up new skills quickly and eager to learn from others.

If you can offer me a job position, do not hesitate to contact me. I am open to new challenges and possibilities. Thank you very much for your time and consideration.

Sincerely yours,

Vasileios-Athanasios
Anagnostopoulos